Convict No.9263 Sampanni Porappa referred to in the above reference, is a native of Talur village in Hospet Taluk. He along with three others who are rowdies and gamblers of the same village, murdered a marvadi of the said village.

Inspector of Police, Hospet, reports that this convict is also a rowdy, bad character and a gambler. He is a close friend of the other three accused. One of the accused in this case, Halti Basappa is reported to have already been released from jail and is living in Talur.

This convict has lost all his property in gambling and there is nothing for him in the village now to fall back upon immediately he is released. There is every chance of his taking revenge on the other members of the deceased's family who are still afraid of him. He is a rowdy and apt to commit grave offences. His release will be hazardous to the public safety. I therefore do not recommend his release.

~~Opinion of the D.S.P.~~ The D.S.P. has not recommended

recommended the convicts release for the reason that his release will be hazardous to the public safety But the D. M. has recommended the premature release. The Govt. of India hence in their instructions in Circ. 15-7 and 1905 and in Circ. 45-7 and 1910 emphasised the desirability of releasing all convicts confined in Indian gaols subject to suitable conditions if necessary on their completing 14 years including remissions provided such release is not incompatible with public safety.

The Dm has not given reasons for his premature release of this convict. The S.P.'s report is defending against the release of this convict. It is stated that he is a source of danger to public safety. For orders whether the release may be refused to the convict after he has completed 20 years including remission
